THE SAGGY BAGGY ELEPHANT

Adapted by Tennant Redbank
Illustrated by Garva Hathi

Sooki dances.

Happy elephant!

One. Two. Three.

STOMP!

The jungle shakes.

One. Two. Three.

KICK!

A tree falls.

A parrot sees Sooki
and giggles.

He teases Sooki about his saggy, baggy skin.

Sooki wants to fix it!
But how?

Here comes a tiger.
He is not saggy.

Why?
He stays fit!

So Sooki walks.

Sooki rolls.

But his skin is still too big!

Maybe water will shrink his skin.

Oh, no!

Here comes a crocodile!

Run!

Sooki finds a dark cave.

Hide inside, Sooki.
Hide your saggy skin.
Hide your baggy skin.

GROWL.

Here comes a lion...
The lion is hungry.

Sooki trumpets
with his trunk!

STOMP! STOMP!

Here come many elephants!

The lion runs away.

Sooki looks at the elephants.

They have saggy skin.
They have baggy skin.
Just like him.

Sooki dances.
The elephants dance.

One. Two. Three.
KICK!

Happy elephants.
