PIG AT WORK

Troll

I go to work
from eight to four.

It's just five minutes,

PIG

door . . .

to . . .

door!

I bring an apple,
cheese, and bread.
I wear a hard hat
on my head.

Here's my boss.
His truck is big.

"Good morning, Wolf."
"Good morning, Pig."

We put the backhoe
on the truck.
We make wide turns.

We don't get stuck.

I take control.
I'm Backhoe Pig!

I get inside,
unload the rig.

I scrape a path
with one big sweep.

I dig a trench
that's three feet deep.

I back it up.
Beep-beep, beep-beep.

I dump the gravel
in a heap.

My good friends
the alligators
love their orange excavators.

We move the earth.

We dig.

We dump.

We carry rocks.

We bury stumps.

We leave the biggest rock for last.

Too big to move—
we'll have to. . .

We work all week.
We truck in fill.

We make a pond.
We make a hill.

The pond is full.
Our work is done.

We all jump in.
This job is fun!
